TWENTY CENTS

Enough dough & two nurses too Crusaders leave Wednesday for P. E. I.

It was quite an achievement. In fact, it is almost a miracle.

A few weeks ago it seemed that the Wilmington Crusaders would not be able to finance a trip to Prince Edward Island, Canada. They had been invited to take part in an Old Home Week celebration by the Charlottetown Chamber of Commerce.

Four thousand dollars was needed. The kids were working hard, but $4,000 was a long way off.

This paper published an editorial comment to the effect, and the businessmen and people of Wilmington rallied to the cause. Not that the Crusaders stopped working, for they didn't, but that they suddenly had a lot of friends.

The people of Wilmington proved that they could support a group of young people who were hard working clean living youngsters. Hundreds of dollars poured in to the Crusaders coffers, money every week.

They still need a few more dollars - they aren't quite up to the $4000 mark, as of this writing.

But, 60 Crusaders will be leaving next Wednesday, for P.E.I. They will meet at the VFW Hall, and at 7 p.m. they will board buses in the Weinberg Parking Lot.

There will be 12 chaperones in the two Trombley coaches and there will be two Registered Nurses, Mrs. Theresa Bresnahan of Wakefield and Mrs. Cleo Bickford of Wightman Road, South Tewksbury.

The Crusaders should arrive at Charlottetown about noon, on Thursday, after a 45 minute ride on the Canadian National ferry from Cape Tormentine, New Brunswick.

Egg tossing is a precarious sport

The contest was part of the Lions Club annual picnic, held Saturday night at Joe App's home on Main Street.

WORKING AT THE QUALITY CAR WASH: Last Saturday, some of the Crusaders worked all day, for a share in the receipts of the Main Street place of business. They washed windows inside, and polished cars outside.

Walter Reid, the boss, and employee Bruce

Carson are nearest the car, as it emerges, and Crusaders polishing up the car are Stephen Doak, second baritone; Patty Hughes, first baritone; Stephen Richard, French horn; and Kevin Longo, snare drum.

Cease and Desist order - Chapter V

A week ago the Clerk of the Court of Woburn District Court instructed the Town Counsel and Atty. Joseph Courtney to try to settle out of court the longstanding dispute about the gravel operations off Aldrich Road, Wilmington.

Town Counsel Alan Altman had gone to court following instructions from the Board of Selectmen to take legal steps to prevent the removal of gravel from the Aldrich Road site. Altman had a feeling that the case "was sort of gray," but hoped the Clerk of the Court would issue a ruling which would make it "black and white." This the Clerk of the Court did not do.

So Mr. Altman sought further instructions from the Board of Selectmen. He asked for a Special Meeting with the Selectmen, for Tuesday evening.

Tuesday evening only Danny Gillis was present. He had come up from Cape Cod, to discuss the case.

One selectman, Mr. Boylen, is in New Hampshire. The others are in Wilmington.

Mr. Gillis, who wants to pursue the case further, was alone Monday night.

Fred Cain's accident

Rep. Fred F. Cain laughs at it now, but painfully. He was in an accident two weeks ago, on Route 93, southbound, in New Hampshire. It was the kind of accident that people don't get into. Fred landed in Mass General, with a compressed disc in his backbone: quite painful.

He and Mrs. Cain were driving south. A heavy rain was falling. It was a situation in which you follow the car ahead, and hope that everyone is taking precautions. Everyone was driving at about 50 miles an hour, and it was dangerous to change speed.

Ahead of him Fred could see a red light, from another car, and he followed it, keeping in relative position. As long as I follow that car, he figured, I will be safe.

But the lead car ended up in the median strip, and so did Rep. Cain. Going into a median strip at 50 miles an hour isn't fun.

Mr. Cain's car was not scratched, but he suffered compression to his backbone, and Mrs. Cain an injury to her cheek.

In Mass. General everything became typically Fred Cain. His back hurt, but he had things to do. A telephone was installed by his bedside, and it wasn't there for decorative purposes.

Cain was put in a corset, to help his backbone along. He stood the pain, and after about five or six days he had to get out of the hospital.

Now he is back at his office, every day, or at the State House. He moves around gingerly. The back still hurts.

He is working, and that, to Fred Cain is the main thing. Saturday he will be host to the Democratic cookout, in the Fred Cain parking lot. The reader can bet there will be no back-clapping with Fred Cain, this year.

IT IS NOT EASY TO MOVE: With a compressed disc.

The Andersen policeman bill hearing in State House

The bill which was filed in the state house at the request of the Town of Wilmington, to permit Robert J. Andersen of School Street to take an examination for policeman has been heard, by committee.

The Committee on Public Service turned in an unfavorable report. The report was made by chairman Andrew H. Card, Jr., of Holbrook.

Wilmington's Rep. Fred Cain then took up the matter, in debate. Cain told the House that the bill had been submitted only after Mr. Andersen had received the necessary number of signatures, and only after a favorable vote in the Wilmington Town Meeting.

Mr. Cain was sustained by a ten to one standing vote. The bill is scheduled to receive its Third Reading today, in the House of Representatives. Mr. Cain does not anticipate any further difficulties in the House.

After passage in the House the bill must still receive a favorable vote in the Massachusetts Senate.

Pilot was suicide

Plane was aimed at Curran home

The pilot who was killed, Sunday, in a Wilmington plane crash at the corner of Shady Lane Drive and Lawrence Street had a suicide note in his pocket. The note was found by the coroner, Dr. Devlin, in an examination of the body after the crash.

Consciously or unconsciously that pilot had aimed his plane at the home of the Michael B Curran family of Lawrence Street, in the last few seconds of his life.

There is a sturdy white oak tree, in back of the Lawrence Grover home, next door. That tree is well into its second century. The branches, eight and ten inches thick, are well up in the tree.

That oak was literally a life saver for the Curran family. The plane's wing struck it, at 3:55 pm Sunday, just at the time of the first out, in the ninth inning of the Red Sox game. That crash probably killed the pilot, and it did deflect the plane, so that it missed the Curran home.

The plane was a World War II Army Trainer, known to many as an AT 6, and to veterans of the Army Air Corps as a Texan. It had been rebuilt, and had flown out of Bedford Airport only a short while before.

Middlesex County Coroner Dr. Devlin found a small note, in the effects of the pilot, which indicated that suicide was on his mind when he took off, in that plane, Sunday. Alexander Dyko, a machinist, 45 years old, of Belmont had been flying the rebuilt trainer around indecisively for over fifteen minutes when he finally crashed into that oak tree.

The Burlington Police logged four telephone calls that he had been flying around low, in that town. The last was at 3:50 p.m. when he was reported heading toward Wilmington. They notified the Wilmington police.

Barbara Bertwell Cook, down at the Bertwell place on Chestnut Street saw the plane flying overhead, low and with engine sputtering.

Soon afterward Francis Downs, Superintendent of Parks noted it flying over the Town Park. Downs had two of his sons with him, and one of them related that the plane dived down, and then recovered and flew off.

Julia Fielding, on Butters Row, saw the plane, and noted that it was both low and that the engine was sputtering.

Hayward Bliss, on Glen Road, saw the plane fly over his home in a northeast direction. It disappeared behind some trees. A few minutes later he could hear the crash, as the plane struck the oak tree and continued onward.

Possibly, in those few moments, it had been up over Corum Village, for there were reports of this. But the plane, when it struck that oak, was flying nearly due east.

The pilot was not a former Wilmington resident, and as far as is known there was no reason why he should pick the Curran home as a target. He could have achieved his purpose just as well by diving into Silver Lake.

When he struck that oak tree he splintered a part of into splinters, match stick size. The right wing struck those big branches, and, torn off the plane, flipped over into the Curran yard. A two year old son, seated in the back yard, was only a few yards away from that wing when it landed.

Diverted slightly to the right but continuing on without much loss of speed, the plane struck a large pine tree in the Curran yard. It splintered some substantial branches. Part of the debris from the original encounter with the oak tree continued on in a straight path, and smashed the upstairs window in the Curran home.

On across Lawrence Street the plane continued, the pilot probably dead. It demolished a fence around the swimming pool of the Jack Collins home, and struck the apron

Wilmington tops Framingham in tourney

A combined team of Wildcat and Maverick players defeated Framingham 6-3 last Saturday in the first round of the Lexington Baseball Tournament. John Milano managed to survive the stifling 100 degree heat as he went into the seventh inning with a no-hitter. Milano tired in the heat however as the Framingham rallied to score three runs while loading the bases with two outs.

At this point the weary Milano was relieved by Randy Foster who promptly fired on epoch and got out of the jam via a fly ball to outfielder Tommy Stewart.

Todd Richards was the defensive and offensive star of the day as he did the job at third base while banging out a pair of hits. Other contributors for the winners were Billy Blaisdell with two hits to drive across three big runs and teammate Don McLaughlin with a two for three day.

Randy Foster and Steve Woods chipped in with singles for Wilmington.

The combined Maverick and Wildcat winning roster: John Milano, Randy Foster, Bill Blaisdell, Steve Woods, Tom Steward, Mike Carlin, Tod Richards.

Art Sughrue, Don McLaughlin, Fred Olshaw, Brian Hurley, Bill Liston, Rich Scanlon, Paul Bush and Chris Burke.

Rec nine close on sour note

The baseball entry in the Northeast League concluded its season last week losing all three outings to bring their final seasonal mark to 8-14-2. However, Coaches Dick Mulno and Tom Woods along with the 16 ball players are to be congratulated for their continued efforts to bring respectability to the area baseball.

Tue. July 29: The Tiggers pushed across five runs in the last of the fifth inning to slip past the Pink Panthers, 16 - 15 in the opening game of a four game set at Town Park. Linda Hardy led the Tiggers offensive attack with four hits and three rbi's, while Carol Fillio chipped in with three hits. Colleen Dowd and Mary Ellen O'Reilly had two hits each for the Panthers.

In the second contest the Recs 17 and over club ripped the girls division leading Streakers, 21 - 7 in an exhibition contest. Tammy Oliviera led Coach Bill Gustus' club club with four hits including a three run triple during a seven run outburst in the second inning.

The Wedges trampled the Cellar Dwellers, 30 - 8 in the first of two boys' contests as a 13 run third inning put the game out of sight. Tom Tower (3-3) got the mound win over Gary Minks (2-4). Les Peabody and Tom Jillette led the Wedges with three hits each.

In the final game of the evening, the Wrecks out scored Silver Lake, 34 - 32. Paul Gracia and Paul Burke slammed out three hits each for the Wrecks, while Paul Dineen had four for the Sox, including a bases loaded double in the fourth frame.

Sat. Aug. 2: S.W.A.T. upended Victor Coffee, 11 - 6 in the steamy heat of the afternoon to open festivities at Town Park. Dave Carrozza led the red and white club to victory with four hits, including three doubles. In the second game, the Cellar Dwellers topped Joe App's, 14 - 6 with Gary Minks (4-3) picking up the win over Mike Falzone (0-1). Steve Jacobs led the Dwellers offensive attack with three singles.

The Silver Lake Sox pulled off the major upset of the season when they tripped up Al MaGoon's, 7 - 5 in the third game of the day. The Sox had to overcome an early 4 - 1 deficit to win their second game in eight outings. Ray Couzzo (1-2) got the win over Barry Foster (1-1). Paul Dineen got the key hit for the Sox, a three run triple in the fifth inning to bring the Six within a run, 5 - 4. Then in the sixth three more runs on four hits and a couple of MaGoon's errors proved to be the difference.

The Recs' entry in the girls softball league edged Chelmsford 6 - 5 to maintain their league lead over the red and white club. Barbara Moulton led the Hastings-Cote club with a pair of singles to support the gutsy pitching of Linda Hary.

In the last game of the night, the Wedges moved into a three-way tie for the league lead in the boys division with a convincing 16 - 8 triumph over the Wrecks. Tom Tower (4-3) went the distance to pick up the win. An eight run sixth inning put the game away for the upstart Wedges as the gold and black club attempted to defend their league title.

at the easterly corner of that pool. Then it flipped over, turning somersault as it passed over Shady Lane Drive, to land upside down in the yard of the James O'Donoghue family, at 74 Lawrence Street.

Both the Collins family and the O'Donoghue family escaped death or serious injury by small fractions of time.

Collins told the Town Crier that he had been seated on a cot, at the easterly corner of the pool. Collins went into the house, and fifteen seconds later the plane struck the swimming pool, and demolished both fence and cot. Collins hasn't seen the cot since.

The plane bounced, and the other wing shook off and landed in the street. It turned over in mid air as it passed over Shady Lane Drive, and landed upside down in the O'Donoghue yard.

Joan O'Donoghue had been in the yard with her children, cooking

THE PLACE WHERE THE COT WAS: Young Jack Collins is standing at the Collins swimming pool, where the plane landed and bounced. The cot that his father was using was at that spot. It just plain disappeared in the accident.

Parts of the plane can be seen in the swimming pool, and the earphones used by the pilot, although not visible, are in the line with the fire engine.

Police cop watermelon race

Over 800 boys and girls attended the third Annual Beach Day which saw the Police Association team win the greased watermelon race over 11 other quartets.

A fun-filled day of swimming, chess, checkers, volleyball, horseshoes, tug-of-war, sand castle sculpture was had by all in the Police Association sponsored event for the Recreation Department playground.

The Police Department provided a free lunch consisting of hot dogs, hamburgers, soda pop, potato chips, pickles and ice cream to all the boys and girls along with the parents present.

The Swain girls and Woburn St. boys won the swimming events in the day long affair at Silver Lake.

THERE WAS NOTHING FISHY ABOUT THE SHARK: At Silver Lake last Thursday, and that was the problem. Despite his best swimming efforts, lifeguard Jay Dizzacomo failed to convince anyone that the black fin in the water was that of a shark. By the time he waded ashore, few people were paying attention. His finny venture was intended to clear the water for the greased watermelon race, but conventional methods proved more effective.

GREASED WATERMELON CHASERS: Ended up with as much lard as the melon last Thursday at the Wilmington Recreation Department beach day. The Wilmington Police Association team topped 11 other foursomes in the greased watermelon race. From left, Carol Bailey, Bob Auer, Dave McCue, and Jeannette Davidson.

The Reading Municipal Light Department is expected to make the hook-up next week, in plenty of time for the opening of school.

ALICE DOUCETTE RN: For many years the Public Health Nurse of Wilmington, photographed on her 94th birthday, July 25.

Her daddy, Jeremiah Doucette, built the home in which she lives on Ballardvale Street, and was, among other things, the founder of the first Catholic Sunday School in Wilmington.

Alice put in many years assisting the late Dr. Daniel Buzzell in caring for the ill, and the children of Wilmington. Still in full command of her faculties, she is a most remarkable lady.
